

URGES ULSTER IRISH TO IGNORE ELECTION

De Valera Issues Manifesto to Voters of Six Northern Counties.

REPUDIATES BRITISH LAW

Dublin Free Staters Expect Appeal Will Meet With Little Response.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD. Copyright, 1922, by THE NEW YORK HERALD. New York Herald Bureau, Dublin, Nov. 3.

One of the first acts of Eamon De Valera, as president of the new Republican council of state was to issue a manifesto to-day to the voters of the six counties under the jurisdiction of the Northern Parliament, asking them to ignore the British elections, while retaining the Belfast Government. Ulster sends thirteen representatives to Westminster under the existing arrangement, but De Valera wants them to refuse to elect these members.

De Valera says: "To participate in these elections is to acquiesce in partition of the country by an alien legislature and to recognize the right of that legislature to make laws binding upon Ireland. Those who believe in unity in the independence of Ireland will have nothing to do with these elections. Ask not permission of a foreigner to do that which we have a right to do and can do ourselves. Without asking permission from England we set up our own national institutions and we do not need England's permission now to continue to be faithful to them and to uphold them. Circumstances in special areas may, for the moment, prevent direct, positive support of these institutions, but non-recognition of the imposed authority of a foreigner is everywhere possible and everywhere a duty."

De Valera's popularity is so weakened, however, that the manifesto is not likely to have much effect. Interference with the peaceful policy of the Free State Government is likely to estrange the public even more, as Sir James Craig could make political capital in England of the rebel leader's activity that would strengthen Ulster's position.

The policy of the Cosgrove Ministry toward Ulster is strictly one of peace. While encouraging the northern Nationalists to bring the north and south together, the Dublin Government will not interfere directly in Belfast affairs. Dublin is content to let the Free State's provisions for a boundary commission play their part in impelling the north to come into the Free State.

MAD DOG TEARS AWAY COAT OF JOHN CLAFLIN

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. MONTROSE, N. J., Nov. 3.—Police men with riot guns, which they fired from a patrol wagon, went in pursuit of a mad dog to-day after it had snarled at John Clafin, New York dry goods merchant, and several other persons. The beast leaped at Mr. Clafin as he was walking. Part of his coat was torn away, but the teeth did not come in contact with his flesh. The dog ran out of the park and was pursued to Morris Plains, a suburb, where it was killed. The head has been sent to the Health Department in Trenton for examination.

Tourists to Peru Quit Dry American Vessels

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Attorney-General Daugherty's ban against liquor on American ships has cut the passenger traffic to Peru in American bottoms, the Commerce Department was advised to-day by Commercial Attache Dunn at Lima.

"Due to recent regulations regarding the sale of liquor on vessels," he reported, "passenger business on these ships has been seriously affected."

Mr. Dunn's report was regarded by department officials as indicating a preference on the part of passengers traveling between the United States and Peru to transship at Panama, despite the four or five days' delay, in order to travel aboard a wet ship. Heretofore, officials said, 70 per cent. of the direct traffic between the United States and Peru has been in American ships.

the voters on account of the effect upon taxation at home.

Other well informed quarters think that Mr. Lloyd George is looking further ahead than the election. They think he is organizing for a maneuver that promises more than could accrue from the wholesale nomination of unopposed members at the last moment. That a Labor government will pursue a policy of betrayal, but in the hope that if a Labor government tries to carry out a labor program the bourgeoisie will force civil war. The attitude of the International, therefore, is that a government by labor may be instrumental in disorganizing English workingmen with their party, causing them to turn to Communism.

Nat Watkins, an English Communist now here for the convention, insists that Bonar Law, not Labor, will be successful in the coming elections, and he thinks the unemployed are playing an increasingly important role in the British labor movement.

A large number of Orthodox priests were summoned to governmental headquarters at Moscow, some of whom returned home and some of whom did not. These arrests were in connection with Patriarch Tikhon's trial, which is expected soon.

One of the leaders of the old church despondently expressed the fear that Tikhon would be condemned. Asked why the Soviet would commit the blunder of making a martyr of its chief ecclesiastic opponent, he responded: "The Soviet wants to show its power to terrorize the clergy. I am afraid it can go to any extreme without provoking insurrection, for the peasantry seem as indifferent to the deposition of the Patriarch as they were to the imprisonment of the Czar, and if the Czar's murder failed to stir them why should the Patriarch's?"

BOLSHEVIKI REJOICE IN TURN OF FORTUNE

Preparing to Celebrate Fifth Anniversary of Revolution With Enthusiasm.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD. Copyright, 1922, by THE NEW YORK HERALD. Petrograd, Nov. 3.—The city is white with snow, but it is becoming red with flags and bunting in commemoration of the fifth anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution next Tuesday. The celebration will be unusually enthusiastic on account of a number of circumstances that bring joy to the Reds, among which are the fall of Lloyd George, the capture of Vladivostok, the recovery of Nikolai Lenin, the increasing prosperity of Russia, her diplomatic victory on the Dardanelles and the Fascista coup in Italy, which the Bolsheviks believe to be the precursor of a Communist triumph.

Concurrently with the anniversary of the revolution there is to be a convention of the third International, which opens to-morrow, with thirty-four countries represented, including America, Canada, Mexico and Uruguay, and the American negroes. It will hold two days' sessions here and then complete its work in Moscow. The place to unify the Communists of the world on a common policy will be the most important subject discussed.

The executive committee of the International has issued a manifesto to English workmen, advising them to vote for Labor, notwithstanding the certainty that a Labor government will pursue a policy of betrayal, but in the hope that if a Labor government tries to carry out a labor program the bourgeoisie will force civil war. The attitude of the International, therefore, is that a government by labor may be instrumental in disorganizing English workingmen with their party, causing them to turn to Communism.

Nat Watkins, an English Communist now here for the convention, insists that Bonar Law, not Labor, will be successful in the coming elections, and he thinks the unemployed are playing an increasingly important role in the British labor movement.

ROME CABINET USES BUSINESS METHODS

Finzi, Minister of Interior, Says Internal Pacification Is First Problem.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD. Copyright, 1922, by THE NEW YORK HERALD. Rome, Nov. 3.

The internal policy of the new Government was outlined for THE NEW YORK HERALD correspondent by Aldo Finzi, Minister of the Interior in the Mussolini Cabinet. Signor Finzi, who is 31 years old and one of the youngest Fascista deputies, is a famous aviator who flew over Vienna and was in Gabriele d'Annunzio's squadron during the war, since when he has devoted himself to a business career.

"I regard the administration of the Interior as I would regard the administration of business," he said. "The first necessity is for internal pacification, and therefore complete demobilization of the Fascista army has been ordered. This must be followed by the demobilization of Fascismo in the spiritual sense. Premier Mussolini and I intend to restore complete order in the country by the strictest observance of law on the part of all citizens of whatever party."

"Now that the country has acquired a backbone, State authority will be speedily enforced, enabling us to turn to the next great problem—financial reconstruction of the country. The Mussolini Government has taken the decision to eliminate from the orbit of State activities all functions which are properly private functions. We intend to transfer railways, telegraphs and telephone services to private hands."

"Regarding the elimination or consolidation of ministries such as those of the liberated regions and posts, our method of ridding Italy of the present bureaucracy will be to reduce State functions to the minimum required for stable government."

Signor Finzi, speaking for himself and the Premier, expressed his admiration for America and his confidence that once strong government and internal economies were accomplished in Italy an "era of the closest cooperation between the two countries" would begin.

In one short week Premier Mussolini has furnished material for a dramatic epic. From intimate friends of Signor Mussolini THE NEW YORK HERALD correspondent has gained glimpses of a crowded week in which a whole chapter of Italian history is compressed. It was while speeding from Naples to Milan, after the first great demonstration by the Fascista army, that Mussolini assumed the gigantic task of the direction of the Fascista forces during the fateful hours following the fall of the Pacta Government. Through it all Mussolini has labored with his prodigious energy, directing his army with vigorous discipline.

It is now known that Mussolini promptly refused an offer of a special train from Milan to Rome, saying, "In a time when economy is Italy's first need I shall set an example against extravagance." That is why he came in a regular train from Milan.

Mussolini leaves his hotel at 5 o'clock in the morning, and works straight through till long after midnight, but his energy appears to be inexhaustible.

Fascisti Will Present Black Shirt to Prince

ROME, Nov. 3 (Associated Press).—Deputy Capanni has been entrusted by the Fascisti to go to the royal hunting lodge at San Rossore, where the royal family is residing, and present to the Crown Prince the black shirt of the Fascisti, the Prince having been unanimously invited to enter the ranks of the association.

Capanni is well known as a sportsman. He spent several years in Buenos Aires but returned to Italy to take part in the war. Later he went to Fiume with Gabriele d'Annunzio.

CANADA MAY SEND ENVOY HERE SOON

Ottawa Expected to Name Minister or High Commissioner at Washington.

OTTAWA, Nov. 3.—The announcement soon of the appointment of a Canadian representative at Washington is expected as the result of a conference held this week between Premier Mackenzie King and Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador at Washington. Official announcement concerning any decisions then reached still are lacking.

If a Canadian representative, either a Minister or High Commissioner, is appointed, his authority is likely to be more restricted than was contemplated in the arrangement reached in 1920 between Sir Robert Borden, then Prime Minister of Canada, and the Lloyd George Government. Canada was to have a Minister Plenipotentiary at Washington, reporting to Canada, taking instructions from Canada and serving as the ordinary channel of communication with the United States Government on matters of purely Canadian concern.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.

So far as officials of the State Department have learned the question of the appointment of a Canadian Minister or High Commissioner in Washington is undecided. It is the understanding here that the proposal which met favor was not independent representation, but rather the assignment to the British Embassy in Washington of a Canadian diplomat who would be charged specially with responsibility for American-Canadian relations.

WALES MINE STRIKE OFF.

Federation Withdraws Call, as Only Few Obeyed.

CARDEIFF, Wales, Nov. 3.—The South Wales Miners' Federation has decided to withdraw its notice of a general strike, and work will be continued.

It was found that only a small percentage of the miners were obeying the call to force complete unionization of the mine fields.

MUSSOLINI PLEDGES ORDER FOR COUNTRY

Calls for Work, Discipline and Concord to Gain Path of Prosperity.

ROME, Nov. 3 (Associated Press).—On the occasion of the celebration to-morrow of the fourth anniversary of Italy's victory in the war the Government has addressed a message to the people, pledging itself to the maintenance of internal peace.

"In memory of the great victory of our arms," says the message, "let the whole nation recover and adapt itself to the hard necessities of the moment. The Government understands how to govern, and will govern. All its energies will be directed to the maintenance of internal peace and increasing Italy's prestige abroad. Only by work, discipline and concord will the fatherland emerge from the present crisis to tread the path of prosperity and greatness."

The message is signed by Premier Mussolini.

Forbids Long Speeches.

Mussolini and his Ministers are preparing the program of the new Government for submission to Parliament when it reopens November 15. The Premier has expressed the desire that there be no unnecessary speeches, such as have characterized the convening of the Chamber, and has made it known that if his wish is not complied with he will adopt other and more persuasive means. He is arguing that the Fascisti, commanded by officers, could replace the regular army and that special training centers could give military instruction to the peasants. Such a reform would result in considerable budgetary economy in addition to the 3,000,000 lire, which would come from the proposed closing of railroads, telegraphs, telephones and other public utilities to private companies.

The Premier has ordered energetic measures taken to speed up telegraphic and telephone communication with other countries, particularly press messages, which he declared must no longer be subject to any delay or restriction.

Calls on Ambassadors.

Mussolini visited to-day various embassies in Rome, including the British, and participate in the political activities at home. Premier Mussolini has accepted the resignation of Signor Frassati, the Ambassador to Germany.

Count Sforza, the Ambassador at Paris, will arrive in Rome to-morrow. He was summoned by Mussolini, who at first told him to remain at his post, after receiving Count Sforza's explanation that he had resigned only because he wished to facilitate the task of the new Government and do his part to give it stability and long life.

Avezano Gets U. S. Post.

The appointment of Baron Romano Avezano as Ambassador to the United States, to succeed Vittorio Rolandi-Ricci, was announced to-day. It was said the post had been first offered to Senator Luigi Albertini, Italian representative at the Washington armament conference, but that he had declined the offer, preferring to remain in Italy.

American, Japanese, Brazilian and German. His call on Ambassador Child had been preceded by a visit paid the Premier by the American envoy. Their talk was of the most friendly character.

Former Premier Francesco Nitti is reported to have made application for a passport to go to America.

There is no love lost between ex-Premier Nitti and the Fascisti. So bitter was the Fascisti feeling against him, that his home in Naples was placed under guard during the recent Fascista convention there. His newspaper, Il Paese, has several times been raided by Fascista bands.

Baron Avezano was appointed Ambassador to the United States in October, 1919. He had been Italian Minister to Greece and during the war was in Paris as Minister to the Montenegro court, which had fled to that city. Baron Avezano has a particularly warm feeling for the American capital, as it was there he entered the diplomatic service of his country as a secretary. His wife is an American by birth.

The reason for his recall by Giolitti, then Premier, who sent Rolandi Ricci to replace him, was never made clear.

The men were arrested on October 23. The police assert that a loaded .38 caliber revolver, the caliber of the bullet which killed the restaurant keeper, was found on McCann. Examination of the prisoners was continued until Monday.
